

ALI HOSSAINI BIO

Ali Hossaini is an artist, philosopher and business executive who works at the cutting edge of media. Having collaborated with talent ranging from Robert Wilson to Brad Pitt, his personal work and his productions have been exhibited in museums, galleries and festivals internationally, winning acclaim from Vanity Fair, Cool Hunting and many other outlets, including The New York Times, which calls him "a biochemist turned philosopher turned television producer turned visual poet."

He has been involved in the launch of several television channels, including LAB HD, the only TV channel devoted to video art, Equator HD, Gallery HD, Oxygen, TechTV, NOW and LinkTV. He is currently proprietor of Pantar, a consultancy that specializes in business strategy and talent-driven productions of artistic merit. In 2011 he focused on 3D film production, research into autism, and an exhibition of his video The Fabric of Life which featured a performance by Philip Glass to benefit his operatic collaboration with Paola Prestini, Oceanic Verses.

Hossaini's projects include the Robert Wilson Video Portraits, which includes performances by Johnny Depp, Salma Hayek, Winona Ryder, Robert Downey, Jr, Princess Caroline of Monaco, Sean Penn and other cultural icons. He has produced numerous documentaries and factual television series relating to travel, natural history, culture and sustainable living. In 2008 he produced Self-Portrait, a short film by Dennis Hopper.

In 2012 and 2013 Hossaini has exhibitions scheduled at Biennales, museums, galleries and theaters, including the Kennedy Centre and Barbican. The American Museum of the Moving Image maintains an exhibit devoted to LAB HD from 2006 - 2010. Other productions have been exhibited at the Lincoln Center, the Tribeca Film Festival, the Montreal Festival of Film on Art, PS1/MoMA, The Hackney Empire, SF Cinemateque, Pacific Film Archives, the Beijing Borderlines Festival, Couvent des Cordeliers and many other international venues. His production of Don't Trust Anyone Over 30 appeared in the 2006 Whitney Biennial. His directorial debut, Epiphany, premiered at Anthology Film Archives in 2006.

As a vice president at the women's TV network Oxygen Media, Hossaini developed numerous initiatives related to programming and social networking. At TechTV, he launched Chat Day!, the first application to merge chat, webcams and live TV in a virtual environment. Hossaini is a member of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences and the National Association of Television Program Executives. He serves on the Board of Advisors for Anthology Film Archives, White Box and the Pacifica Vanuatu Foundation.

He regularly speaks at conferences in the United States and Europe. In the 1990s he was a regular guest on The Site, an award-winning MSNBC newsmagazine. Hossaini recently completed a manuscript, Vision of the Gods: How optics shaped history, and he contributed three entries to the Encyclopedia of Photography, published by Routledge in 2005. His writing has appeared in Open Democracy (UK), The Village Voice, New York Newsday, Maclean's Magazine (Canada), Logos Journal, The Nation, Al-Ahram Weekly (Egypt), and Verlag Spotlight (Germany). He is anthologized in several scholarly anthologies and textbooks, and his essays on photography are frequently included in college coursebooks.

While working as an acquisitions editor at the University of Texas Press, Hossaini published one of the first electronic books in conjunction with the Coalition for Networked Information. He also developed Surrealist Women, an anthology of suppressed female artists, and he successfully funded the Texas History Series. As a graduate student Hossaini was awarded fellowships for poetry, photography and philosophy. He received his doctorate in philosophy from the University of Texas at Austin in 1994. His dissertation, Archaeology of the Photograph, traces the history of geometric optics from Sumer to the Classical Era.
